

Dr. Lunderville is a board-certified physician and women's health specialist with a background in holistic practices. After her medical training at UCLA and UCSF, she initially focused on women's health and reproductive justice but eventually left academic medicine due to disillusionment. Recognizing the limitations of the modern healthcare system in supporting women's wellness, she transitioned to a concierge practice, specializing in aesthetic treatments and wellness for women in the Bay Area.

Over the past 5 years, Dr. Lunderville has expanded her practice to exclusively supervise nurse injectors, through trainings, online courses, retreats, and conferences. Her true passion lies in helping her women overcome self-doubt, take risks, and step into leadership and entrepreneurial roles.